Personal Profile

Born and bred in Newport I now balance my time between Newport, Cardiff and London. I trained as an actor in Carmarthen and still work as an actor. After being introduced to National Theatre Wales after a monologue competition I won, I found a real flare and passion for writing.

My plays are often rooted around themes that I feel and relate to, like grief, love and identity for example. They often, if not always take inspiration from my personal experiences and my upbringing and music plays a huge factor in my writing and creation of work.

Having worked with companies like Mess Up The Mess and Taking Flight I am facilitator trained. I'm also The former Children's Laureate of Wales (2021 - 2023)
